Paul Langston, Business Development Manager, Conversion Technology Centre, BP
Paul leads the business development of BP's Fischer-Tropsch technology in the USA, and is based in their International Centre for Business & Technology, in Sunbury-on-Thames, UK. Having over 17 years experience in the hydrocarbons industry; Paul's previous employment history includes business development of Technology and Engineering Services at KBR, compact heat exchanger and microchannel reactor design for Heatric (a division of Meggitt UK Ltd), and process engineering design of ethylene plants for Shaw Group. Paul is a chartered Chemical Engineer and holds a PhD and MEng degree in Chemcial Engineering from The University of Sheffield, UK.