Curt Dombek is the Managing Partner of the Brussels office of Sheppard Mullin Richter & Hampton, an international firm of 650 lawyers based in California with offices across the United States, in China, the UK, Belgium and South Korea. It has one of the leading aerospace and defense practices among global law firms. Mr. Dombek earned his undergraduate and law degrees at Harvard and has advised clients for over 30 years on cross-border transactions and regulations affecting aerospace and defense, telecommunications, computer hardware and software, energy, pharmaceuticals, chemicals and electronics. He was appointed in 2011 to the President's Export Council Subcommittee on Export Administration and in 2012 to the Regulations and Procedures Technical Advisory Committee of the Commerce Department, where he is working on implementation of the U.S. Export Control Reform. He has extensive experience with U.S. and EU export controls, both military and commercial.
