Jake White, Environmental Lawyer, Friends Of The Earth
Jake White qualified as a solicitor at Shoosmiths where he specialised in intellectual property. After a brief period in the City (at Addleshaw Goddard), he moved into government where he worked for the Department of Trade & Industry and subsequently the Department of Energy and Climate Change. He worked in a wide variety of areas including nuclear energy, State aid and consumer credit, taking a number of Bills through Parliament and drafting implementing regulations. He formulated the UK position in its successful intervention in Commission v Portugal concerning regional aid (2005), participated in negotiating the EU Consumer Credit Directive (2006) and acted for four EU Member States drafting and negotiating a treaty with the USA concerning nuclear energy (2011). He joined Friends of the Earth as a legal adviser in October 2012 and spends a significant proportion of his time focussing on shale gas issues.
