

Fawaz Al-Khudhairy

Senior IT & Communications Rep for King Abdullah Petroleum Studies & Research Center

Saudi Aramco

Fawaz Al-Khudhairy holds a Bachelors degree in Electronic Engineering from the University of Sussex, a Masters degree in Telecommunications Systems Management and Design from Anglia Polytechnic University and a Ph.D in Satellite Communications and Navigation Systems from the University of Sussex, UK.

Fawaz started his career as a consultant for Advanced Electronics Company (AEC), in Riyadh-Saudi Arabia, and helped launch the first Automated Vehicle Location system for the Saudi Red Crescent.

He then joined Saudi Aramco in summer of 2001 and has since held several positions including Sr. Communications and Project Engineer, Head of Government Liaison Engineer, Wireless Engineering Division Supervisor, Lead IT & Communications Consultant. He is now the Sr. IT & Communications Rep for King Abdullah Petroleum Studies & Research Center (KAPSARC).