

Bert Windhorst, Head of Radiopharmaceutical Chemistry, VU University Medical Centre

Bert Windhorst currently holds a position as associate professor in radiopharmaceutical chemistry at the VU University Medical Center, where he heads the radiopharmaceutical chemistry section of the department of Nuclear Medicine & PET Research with in total 38 (radio) chemist. He is member of the board of the NKRV, EANM Drug Development committee, president-elect of the SRS, member of the scientific advisory board of the journal labeled compounds and radiopharmaceuticals, current radiopharmaceuticals and member of the advisory board of the EANM radiopharmacy course. His main research interest is in the development and production of <sup>11</sup>C and <sup>18</sup>F radiolabeled compounds for clinical PET imaging. With respect to this, he has contacts with many pharmaceutical companies on the application of PET in drug development, and established GMP facilities for PET tracer production. He is (co)author of over 75 peer reviewed papers.