Juan Gispert, Senior Medical Director and Chair Centre of Excellence, Quintiles

Juan Gispert received his M.D. in Medicine and Surgery from the University of Navarra in Pamplona, Spain, and then followed Ph.D. in Public Health, Statistics and Epidemiology from the University of Zaragoza; post-graduate degrees in Pharmaceutical Medicine and in Design and Statistics in Health Sciences both from Barcelona University, Spain; and completed his business training in the IESE from Navarra University. He is member of the European Respiratory Society and the European Academy of Allergy and Clinical Immunology.

Dr. Gispert joined pharmaceutical industry in 1992. He is experienced in all aspects of clinical trials, from protocol development to conduct, and has overseen regulatory submissions for FDA, EMEA, and local authorities. He has been leading the medical development and launch of new products, both from strategic-central and local-operative medical departments. He is experienced in global product management and life cycle developments. Before joining Quintiles, he was the medical lead for three compounds currently marketed.

After joining Quintiles in 2005, he was the lead of the global Allergy and Respiratory Team in Medical Services; and currently he is Senior Medical Director and Chair of the Allergy and Respiratory Center of Excellence.